

365 Stories

46. His last words.

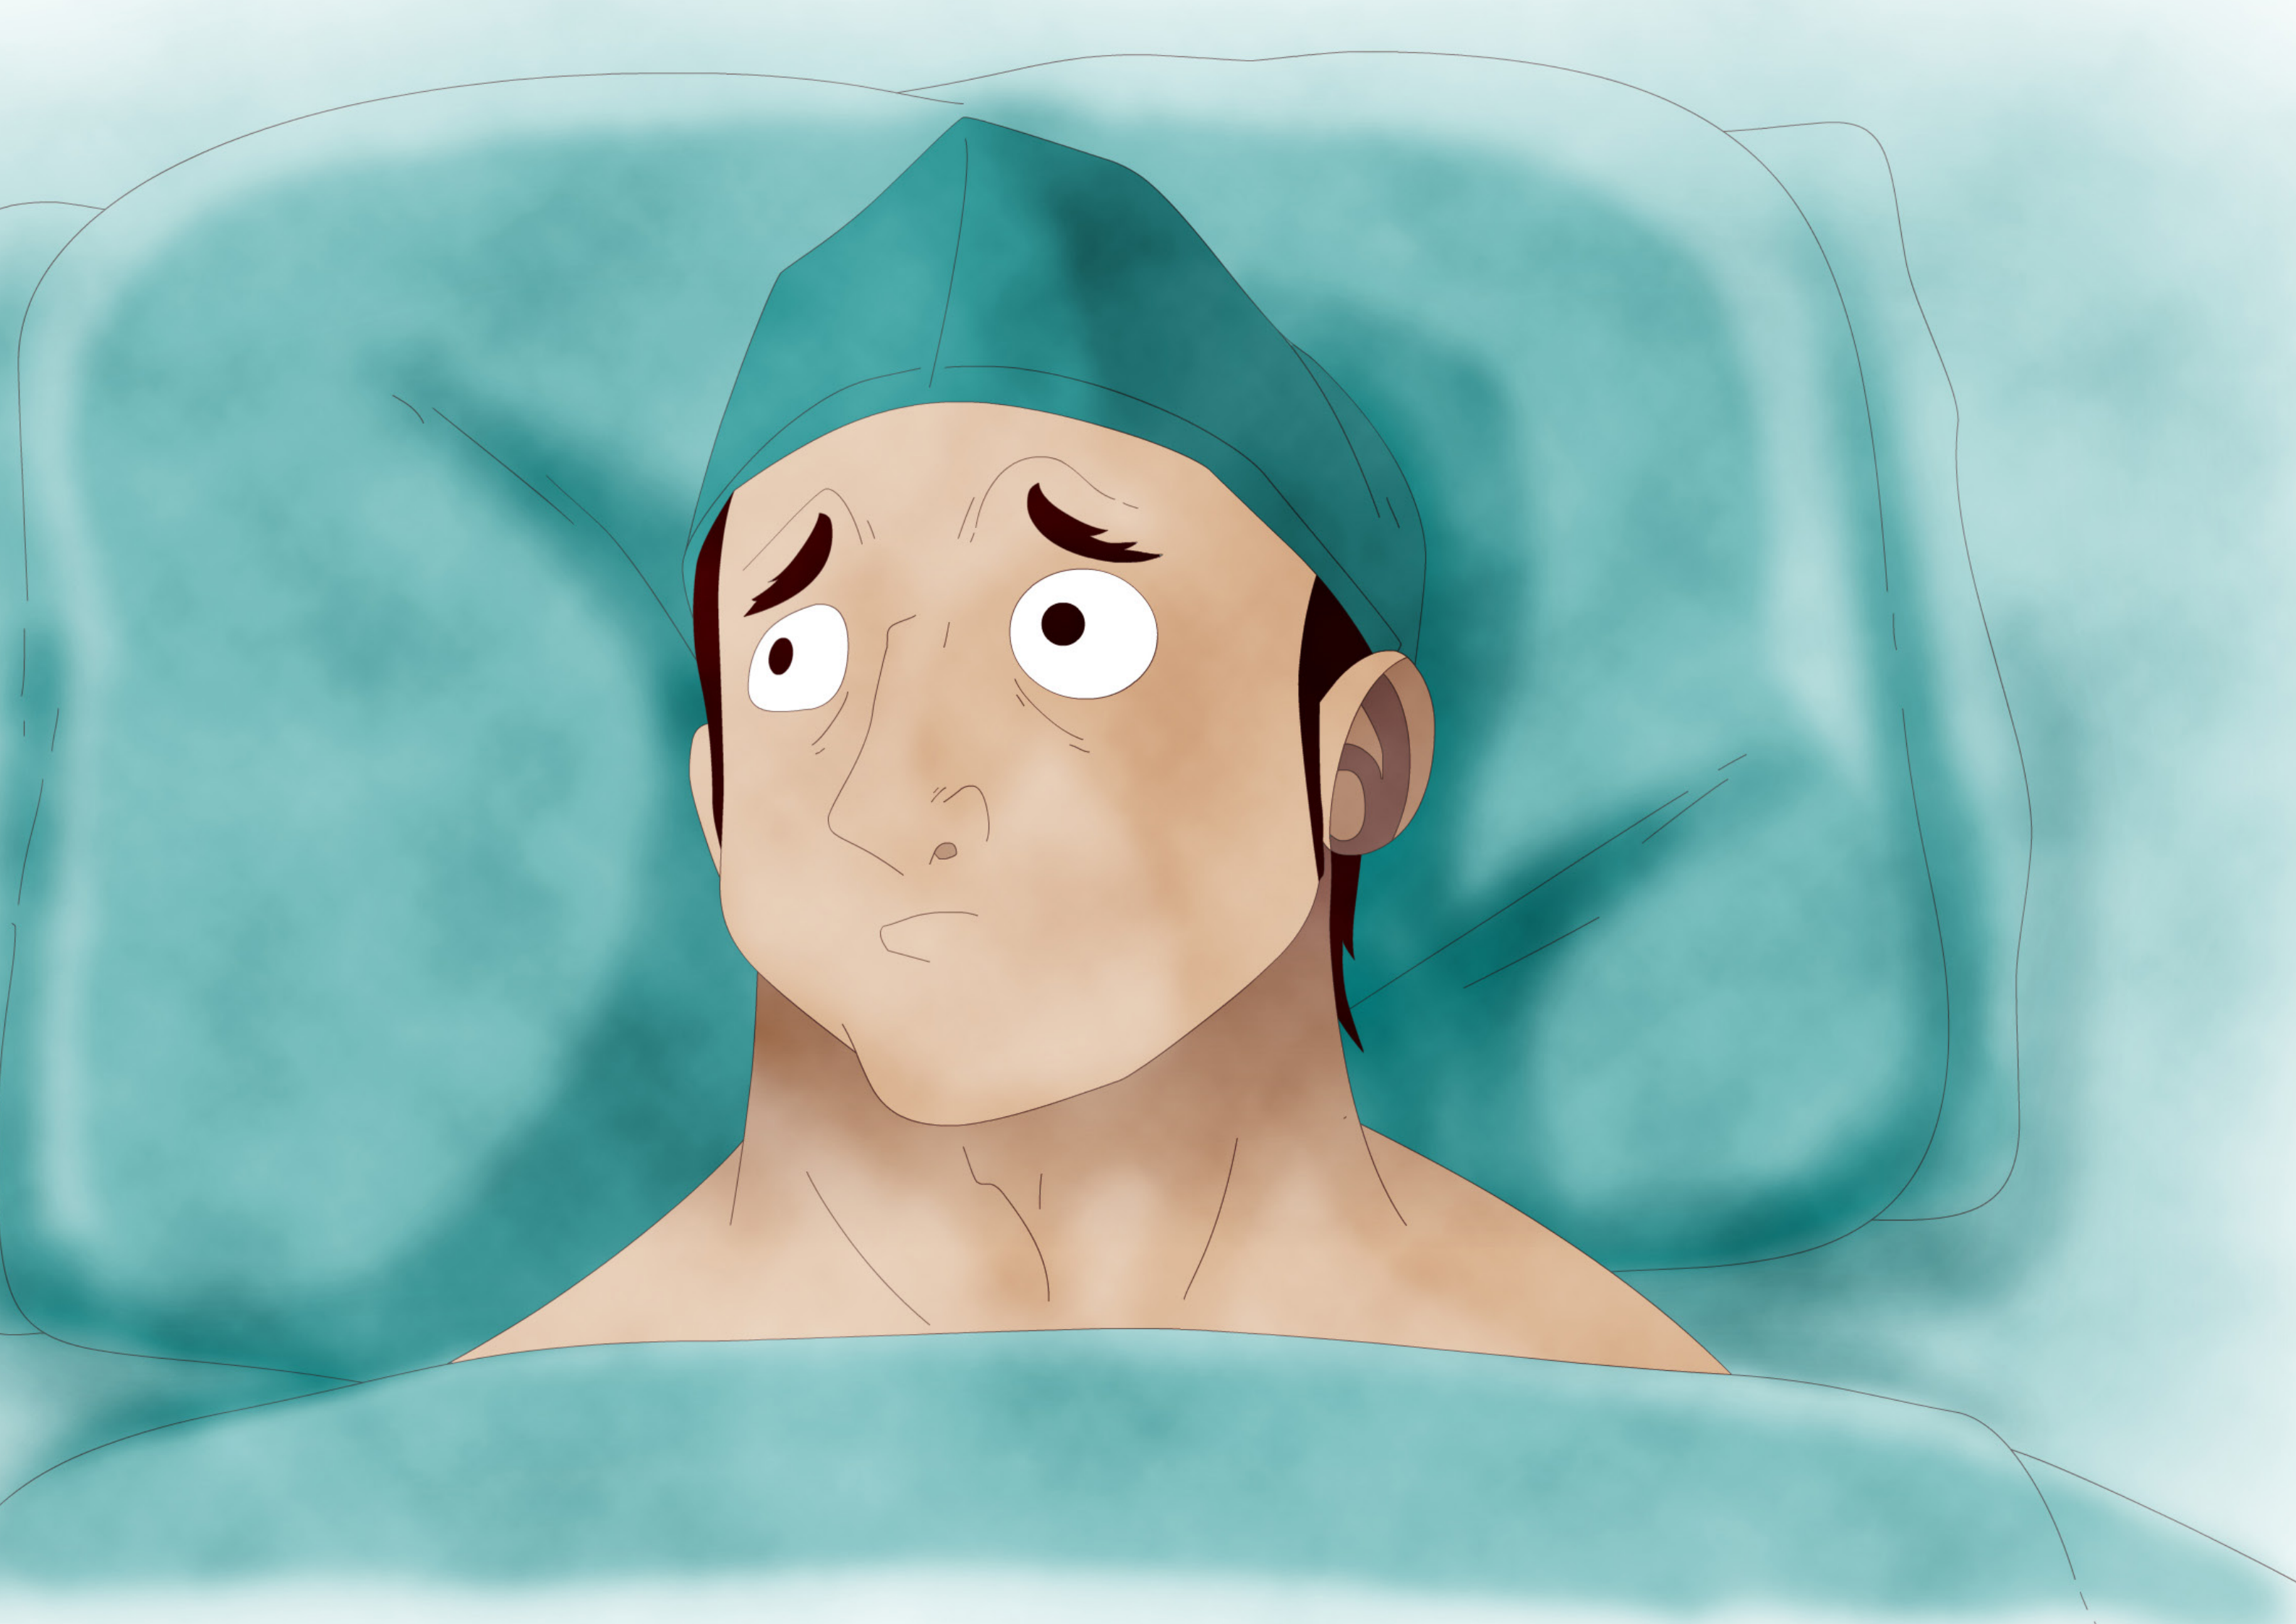

46. His last words.

An important surgical professeur at the point of operating a young farmer with a cancer of the tongue, in a Hospital in Paris. Some students surrounded the operating table during the preparations. The practitioner warned the patient that in the best case, he should expect to lose his voice, after the operation.

If you have yet a wish or something, that you would like to express with your voice, do it now, he suggested.

And remember that these are the last words that you will pronounce. When you will awake after the operation, you will be without a voice.

All were curiously awaiting the last message of the young man. He shut his eyes for a moment, then announced with a voice clear and firm :
_Glory to Jesus-Christ !

The assistants were seized, and the professor had a hard time containing his emotions.

The operation went on with success.

And the loss of the use of the word did not prevent the young Christian from finding his joy in his Savior.

The next day, his mouth opens again when, in his glorified body. He finds himself in the presence of his Lord.

If we were in this case, what are the last words we would have said?