

365 Stories

94. Earthquake in China !

94. Earthquake in China !

This story took place in China during an earthquake in 2011. In the Huan region near the Burmese border. After the shocks had stopped, And when the rescuers reached the ruins of a young woman's house, They see her body through the crevasses in the ground But the pose of her body was somewhat strange.

She was kneeling, as if prostrate. She seemed to be praying, Her body was leaning forward, and her two hands were held by an object The house had been destroyed, crushing her back and her head. With much difficulty, the lead rescuer arrived to where she was and touched her hand ! He hoped that the women would still be alive. However, her body was cold and stiff and at once he realized that she had died.

He and the rest of the team left this house and went to search this house and went to search which had also collapsed But for some unknown reason.

The head of the team was attracted once again by an irresistible force towards the first damaged house where they had seen the dead young woman.

Once again, they leaned and looked closely at this woman showing no life.

And were attracted to look into the empty space under the dead body. Suddenly, with an enthusiastic cry : "A child ! There is a child !" All the team comes together ; They carefully removed the rubble around the mothers body where they found a boy about 3 months old, Wrapped in a flowered blanket, under his mothers body. Obviously, the woman had made an ultimate sacrifice to save her son. During the collapse of her house she had used her own body like a covering to protect her son. The little boy was still sleeping peacefully.

When the team leader revrieved him. The Doctor came rapidly to examine the little boy. After having opened the blanket, he saw a cell phone on the inside. He read the message on the screen saying : "If you should survive, you must remember that I love you." This cell phone went from one hand to another. Everyone single one who read this message had tears in their eyes. 'If you should survive, you must remember that I love you.'" Such is the love of a mother for her child !" You my friend who hear this story know that someone did, more than 2000 years ago now, a sacrifice identicial for you and just like this woman Jesus Christ came to tell you that "If you are alive, know that He loves you and that He gave His life for you on a cross ! Yes, because He loves you and He wants to save you !"